IMF Executive Board Concludes 2021 Article IV Consultation with France

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

WASHINGTON, DC – January 19, 2022

On January 19, 2022 the Executive Board of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) concluded the Article IV consultation¹ with France.

France was among the most affected European countries from the COVID crisis. Strong progress on vaccination has helped effectively contain the COVID virus and has supported a fast normalization of activity in 2021. Widespread inoculation has also ensured that hospitalizations and fatalities remained low in contrast to previous waves. In recent days, Covid-19 infections have risen again substantially due to the rapid spread of the Omicron variant.

A robust economic recovery is underway, bolstered by public support and by solid private sector investment. Overall, output growth is estimated to have increased by about 6¾ for the year. Headline inflation is projected to increase to about 2.1 percent driven by base effects and an increase in energy prices. Employment growth is robust, and the unemployment rate has remained relatively stable. The financial sector has withstood the crisis well and provided ample credit to the economy, with continued supported from a range of prudential and monetary measures.

To address the crisis, the government put in place a large fiscal package in 2020 and further expanded relief programs during the first half of 2021. These are being increasingly targeted and scaled down as the recovery progresses but have been appropriately expanded amidst the new epidemic wave. For 2022, the government plans to continue implementing France's recovery plan, together with additional measures for vulnerable youth and for tackling skills shortages. The authorities have also plan-to kickstarted a new five-year investment plan, "France 2030", aimed at reestablishing a technological lead in selected industries through targeted interventions.

Growth in 2022 is forecast at 3.5 percent, but medium-term output is projected to will remain below the pre-crisis trend, reflecting some limited productivity loss from the uneven pace of recovery. Near-term risks to the outlook are tilted to the downside, dominated by the evolution of the pandemic and supply-chain issues. On the upside, a faster rundown of accumulated savings or stronger demand recovery in hard-hit sectors could raise growth in the near term and reduce scarring in the medium term.
