State Department Says

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.
WASHINGTON, March 30—The State Department announced today that the Allied Governments had obtained detailed information concerning plans of the Nazis to perpetuate their doctrines and their drive for world domination after the defeat of Germany, and declared that "the economic and political foundation of future German aggression" would be smashed.

The information includes even photostatic copies of several volumes of German plans. These plans were set forth at considerable length by the State Department, which said that knowledge of them was behind counter-moves taken by the recent Inter-American Conference on Problems of War and Peace, held in Mexico City, as well as other pronouncements of this and other governments.

The text of the State Department announcement:

The Department of State announced today that reliable information collected by Allied Governments clearly indicates that the Nazi regime in Germany has developed well arranged post-war plans for the perpetuation of Nazi doctrines and domination. Some of these plans have already been put into operation and others are ready to be launched on a widespread scale immediately upon termination of hostilities in Europe.

Nazi party members, German industrialists and the German military, realizing that victory can no longer be attained, are now developing post-war commercial projects, are endeavoring to renew and cement friendships in foreign commercial circles and are planning for renewals of pre-war cartel agreements.

Setting Up of Dummies Seen

An appeal to the courts of various countries will be made early in the post-war period through dummies for "unlawful" seizure of industrial plants and other properties taken over by Allied Governments at the outbreak of war. In cases where this method fails German repurchase will be attempted through "cloaks" who meet the necessary citizenship requirements.

The object in every instance will be to re-establish German control at the earliest possible date. German attempts to continue to share in the control and development of technological change in the immediate post-war period are reflected in phenomenal increase in German patent registrations in foreign countries during the past two years. These registrations reached an all-time high in 1944. The prohibition against exporting capital from Germany was withdrawn several months ago, and a substantial outflow of capital has followed to foreign countries.

German technicians, cultural experts and undercover agents have well-laid plans to infiltrate foreign countries with the object of developing economic, cultural and political ties. German technicians and scientific research experts will be made available at low cost to industrial firms and technical schools in foreign countries. German capital and plans for the construction of ultra-modern technical schools and research laboratories will be offered at extremely favorable terms since they will afford the Germans an excellent opportunity to design and perfect new weapons. This government is now in possession of photostatic copies of several volumes of German plans on this subject. The German propaganda program is to be an integral part of the over-all post-war program. The immediate aim of the propaganda program will be directed at removing Allied control measures by "softening up" the Allies through a subtle plea for "fair treatment" of Germans and later the program will be expanded and intensified with the object of giving rebirth to all Nazi doctrines and furthering German ambitions for world domination. Unless these plans are checked they will present a constant menace to post-war peace and security.

Covered by Resolutions

The recent Inter-American Conference on Problems of War and Peace at Mexico City fully recognized this danger, and as a result adopted numerous resolutions aimed at uncovering and eliminating all Nazi influences in this hemisphere and all activities directed at a resurgence of German power after the war. Such resolutions included the control and elimination of subversive activities, the exclusion and extradition of war criminals, the exchange of information relative to persons who should not be allowed to carry on financial and commercial activities and the reaffirmation of similar objectives of other inter-American conferences.

The State of Gold Policy issued simultaneously on Feb. 22, 1944, by the United Kingdom, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the United States, and the declaration on Jan. 5, 1943, on Acts of Dispossession issued by the same three countries in conjunction with several other countries, together with Resolution VI of Bretton Woods [covering the disposal of looted assets], which has been endorsed by many nations, give ample proof that the peace-loving nations of the world are united and will take such action as is necessary to smash the economic and political foundation of future German aggression.
