World Bank Relations with Yugoslavia

A World Bank economic mission visited Yugoslavia in June 1981 to review the 1981-85 Plan; a Fund staff member participated in this mission. The report of the mission has not yet been finalized. The preliminary assessment of the mission was that the Plan's strategy was well conceived and appropriate and the envisaged investment priorities should contribute to improving the balance of payments. However, some issues related to the implementation of the Plan at the republican and provincial level, particularly in the area of investment, needed to be resolved. In late 1981 the Plan was substantially revised, and the World Bank is in the process of assessing the revised Plan.

Below is a summary of financial relations with the World Bank.
